

ABSTRACT

The candy cruncher is a candy dispenser that allows a person to crush hard candy pieces into a crushed or powdered form. The device comprises a main housing with an aperture located at the upper end, character appendages, flanges, crushed candy, anchor pin, a slotted dispensing disk and a base with a dispensing aperture. A secondary housing comprises a pivot handle, a stationary handle, a pivot pin, an anchor pin, a leverage pedal, a slot at an upper portion of the secondary housing, a candy loading aperture, a door with hinge, stationary grinding teeth angled upward, movable grinding teeth angled downward, a spring, a push rod and candy to be crunched.